What our Exchanges say of it.

THE WEST VIRGINIA ELECTION.

We have said but little heretofore in regard to the election in West Virginia or Thursday last, simply because up to the present time the returns have been so meagre as to leave it in doubt which party was really successful. The State is a closer one in appearance than in reality, for, though it gave six thousand Republican majority in 1836, there are so many disfranchised rebels within the State that a majority of its population, though not of its qualified and legal voters, are doubtless Democratic sentiment. If this State, 100, as in Tennessee, Missouri, and all other States where a large proportion of the Inhabitants are disfranchised on secount of rebellion, the Democration of the Inhabitants are disfranchised on secount of rebellion, the Democration of the Inhabitants are disfranchised on secount of rebellion, the Democration and should not have been surprised if the Democratis had carried it.

But the returns demonstrate that the gallant Republicans of West Virginia and State ticket by a majority of four thousand in a total vote of less than fifty thousand in a total vote of less than fifty thousand—a misority equivalent, in proportion to the size of the State, to forty thousand in Ohio. They have secured a majority in both branches of the State Legislature, thus insuring the election of a sound and true Republican to the United States Senate to second Mr. Barnaby, President of the Democration of the State Legislature, that it is addrawable of the party have issued to the faithful. It is all as plant as a revelation of Brigham Young, and we somitime think it is addrawable to almost as secured a majority in both branches of the State Legislature, thus insuring the election of a sound and true Republican to the United States Senate to second Mr. President of the Democratic Cital of Rhode Island, Preschilded Control of the State, to Grant President of the Democratic Cital of Rhode Island, Preschilded Control of the State Island Republican to the United States Senate to second Republican to the United States From the Cleveland Leader.

WEST VIEGINIA.

Prom the Indianopolis Journal.

The result of the West Virginia election is a splendid Republican victory. That young State has declared by a decided majority against the Democratic organs constantly assured by a decided majority against the Democratic organs constantly assured to the States that voted in October. The triumph is sweeping; we have carried the State by nearly five thousand majority, an unbroken Republican delegation is returned to Congress, and the Legislature is overwhelmingly of the same political faith. And this is itself the Congress, and the Legislature is overwhelmingly of the same political faith. And this is itself the Congress, and the Legislature is overwhelmingly of the same political faith. And this is itself the Congress, and the Legislature is overwhelmingly of the same political faith. And this is itself the Congress, and the Legislature for overwhelmingly of the same political faith. And this is itself the Congress, and the Legislature for overwhelmingly of the State by our proposition to the vote, as a great, in proportion to the vote, as a proposition to the vote, as a proposition of the States in which the Democratic Triumphed, in whic the October elections has all run one way, without even so much as a backward eddy to cheer the Democrats. And now West Virginis, the last of the States to hold an election previous to the Great National election of November, has gone Republican by decided Republican gains. We have, probably, elected all our candidates for Congress, by fair msjorities, and, in short, made a clean aweep of the State. Most of the counties show large Republican gains since last year, not with standing the disturbed condition of portions of the State, and the large numbers of rebels from old Virginia who attempted to vote themthe large numbers of rebels from old Virginia who attempted to vote themselves, and to prevent Republicans from voting. Mosby's old guerrillas, and various other rebel organizations, were relied upon by the Democrats to swell their vote tillegally, and to overcome the Republicans, and prevent them from voting. This was carried so far that, just previous to the election, the Governor of the State was compelled to apply to the War. Department, stating that trouble was anticipated, and making arrangements to procure military aid to preserve the peace in case of tary aid to preserve the peace in case of necessaity. The Democrats fully expected to succeed. The Richmond Enquirer and Examiner declared, on the

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

As soon as the West Virginia election was held measures were taken to revive the sinking Democratic hopes, by the propagation of stories sent from Wheeling; that the result had been a glorious Democratic victory. Particularly glowing accounts of the "deliverance" of the State from the Republicans were sent to such papers as the New York World the Cincinnati Enquirer, etc. These journals, anxious for a little consolation amid the griefs of the period, esgerly clutched at the treacherous atraw, and greatly did they shout over "the reaction." The Enquirer, in high glee, said that the Democracy of Pennsylvania, ect., would pluck fresh courage from "it, and renew the contest with zeal and determination" ect., ect. It was reported that the Democratis had cleated the Governor of West Virginia From the Philadelphia Inquire.

These are glorious results, and the Union men of West Virginia have a right to glory in their triumph. West Virginia keeps her proud place in the column of Republican States, and whill add, her five electoral votes to the magnificent array which will be cast for Ulysses S, Grant in November.

WEST VIRGINIA.

WEST VIRGINIA.

From the Otepland Leader.

—Has "W. W. A." any news from West Virginia to send to Mr. Seymour?

—Will the Plain Dealer please trot at its rooster this afternoon over the agnificent Republican victory in ernor Seymout as able as possible."

But how terribly Mr. Seymour must have felt when he found out the truth.

From the Totato Blade.

The Democrat roosers crowed altogether too soon over West Virginia. The latest returns show that we have carried the State by a majority of over four thousand, have elected every Republican Congression and a large four thousand, have elected every Republican Congressman, and a large majority of the Legislature, which secures a reliable Republican U. S. Senator in place of Van Winkle, who went off with A. Johnson. The Republican majority on the State ticket is somewhat reduced, but that is not surprising considering the large number of "old" Virginians who came over to help their Democratic brethren on election day.

HOW A DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER STICK

Our neighbor, the Post, deserves the credit of sticking to a thing when it has once said it. It committed itself last week on the West Virginia election, by claiming that State by three thousand majority, a Democratic gain of nine thousand. We believe it persists in the statement yet, although it is now about as certain as anything unofficial can be, that West Virginia has gone Republican by five thousand majority. This would reduce the Democratic cain from would reduce the Democratic cain from triumph next Tuesday. It is with a sentiment of ply that they say to themselves, if it is a comfort for the Post's rooster to crow over a fictitious triumph in West Virginia, why let him crow; poor thing, it is his last crow. He will be in "pi" in a few days.

From the Pittsburgh Gazette.

West Virginia has given an average majority of about 4.000 for the Union State ticket, and elected all three Congressmen Republicans. The new Legislature stands if Republicans to 2 Democrats in the Senate, and 43 Republicans to 13 Democrats in the House of Delegates. Yet the Pittsburgh Post persists in keeping exposed to public view its bulletin of last Friday, claiming that the Democracy carried the State. Our neighbors seem reckless of the two-fold result: 1st, that foolish Democrats continue to bet and lose their money, and 23, that the last trace of confidence in their organ is rapidly fading from the minds of its former friends. We can stand this, if they can.
